

John Thompson departed this life at noon on Saturday, and was carried to his long home on Monday. Mr Thompson was one of the first settlers and had reached the 90th year of his age. He was the only teacher or schoolmaster in the settlement for quite a length of time. There is only one person in the parish now living who can claim to have been born in the seventeenth century, George Davidson, who was likewise one of the first of the Harvey settlers.

The following is information gathered from research at the Provincial Archives of NB by Bruce Elliott, summer 2004, and contained in an e-mail to J. Hall, dated 19 Aug 2004:

"The first is Thompson's licence to teach school, in RS655 1844. On 2 Apr. 1838 he was approved by the Board of Education for the County of York. In the minute of the meeting he was called a native of the County of Northumberland, England, and it was said he had produced testimonials of "moral character, religious principles and sober habits" and passed an examination in the 3 R's and English grammar, and was granted a certificate as requested. A pity the testimonials were not placed on file. On 14 Oct. 1844 the trustees of schools for parish of Kingsclear certified that he had been teaching a school in the Harvey Settlement there for many years with exemplary conduct, and currently enrolled 19 males and 15 females; a renewal of his licence was approved 30 Dec. 1844.

"Secondly, the Dunham & McDougall Family Collection (MC167) includes a letter from Thompson to Jonathan McDougall who came to Stanley with the first party, but soon left. McDougall was said to have been living in Gagetown when he received this letter, but that is not apparent on the document itself. The file contains an inaccurate typescript version, but my copy below is from the original which is also there. The transcriber thought he had signed John C. Thompson, but there is no middle initial C, just a big curl at the start of the T. of Thompson. The letter was actually written by the nephew and namesake because John had injured his hand. Note that he refers to his father-in-law back in England, alas not by name. It would appear that McDougall and Thompson might have known one another in the old country. If not, then McDougall managed to hear of Thompson soon after his arrival and knew that he was a teacher. That John had already heard the news of the death of McDougall's wife and sent word home, however, suggests an old-country acquaintance. McDougall's first wife was a Mather from Northumberland, though he himself was born in Scotland; a letter from McD's father-in-law in Otonabee Twp. near Peterborough, Ontario was given to Trent University Archives there by the same donor who gave the Thompson letter to PANB.

"Here is the text of the letter:

The cash value of his land was given as 150 pounds and the value of implements and machinery was given as 10 pounds. He owned three horses, three milch cows, two other neat cattle, fourteen sheep, and three pigs.

It is believed that Elizabeth came to Canada in 1850 with her parents (mother?), brothers Alexander and John, and sister Sarah.

At the time of the 1861 census, Elizabeth's mother was living with them. In the 1871 census, an Alexander Nesbit, age 12, born in NB, lived with Elizabeth and John Taylor.

She married John Taylor, 19 Aug 1857 in Harvey Settlement By Rev. Samuel Johnson . Born 1 May 1825 in Inverarity, Forfar, Scotland. Died 4 Jan 1904 in Harvey Sta. Buried in Harvey Settlement Cemetery. Occupation Farmer And Trading. Religion Presbyterian.

PANB #F15552, p. 295: John Taylor to Elizabeth Swan on Aug 19, 1857, by Samuel Johnson. Witness, William Taylor.

After the death of Elizabeth, John married Phoebe A. Hartt, but left no family by either wife.

John bought the woolen mill business at York Mills from George Lister, and he continued the business for several years. He built a community hall in the center of Harvey village. He was installed as an elder of the Presbyterian Church of Harvey on June 22, 1856.

From church records: John died Jan. 4, 1904, age 79, suffered from apoplexy, ill about 1 1/2 years.

From a newspaper item, (with picture of John Taylor) Saturday, 25 Nov 1893:

A Typical and Worthy Scotchman.

His History Shows What Honesty and Perseverance Can Accomplish.

The above portrait is from a photograph recently taken for the present occasion. John Taylor, of Harvey Station, is the original. He came to this country from Scotland in 1850; was born at Whigstreet, Parish of Inverarity and County of Forfar, in 1825, and is therefore about the same age as Lieut-Governor Boyd. Mr Taylor settled on a lot of wilderness land at Tweedside, so-called, on the western shore of Oromocto Lake, in 1852, where the Swans and others had "got planted unco richt" two years previously.

Tweedside is merely an extension of Harvey on the south. It was originally termed the Campbell block, having been granted to Sir Colin Campbell. The land was divided into ten lots and sold to these people by Andrew Inches, who was then or some time shortly after dubbed by George L. Hatheway, "the king of the crown land office."

The road, instead of being a bridle path as has been said, was then at its best; better in fact than it is today, and no finer tract of land could then be seen between Fredericton and St. Andrews; and no finer farms can be seen on the same road at the present time. The first frame house was erected by Mr. Taylor. He went on with his farming for a number of years, but when the American war broke out he turned his attention to business and opened a trade between the villages and the citizens of St. Stephen and Calais. This proved to be a lucky step for him and was a boon to the settlers as well. Fortune favored him and he began to be favorably known to the merchants of not only these towns, but Fredericton and St. John as well.

After the completion of the European and North American Railway (now the Atlantic division of the Canadian Pacific Railway) he sold his farm at Tweedside and removed to Harvey Station. Here he continued trading, and seeing that business at that place promised well, he erected a large and substantial building, the upper portion of which was designed for use as a public hall; the lower divided into two commodious stores for his own use. Previous to this he had become a shareholder in the York woolen mill, the largest mill of the kind in the province, and after a time became sole owner. Carrying on this business took him away from home a great deal and he decided to sell, which he did at a good profit. The mill while under his control got the reputation of manufacturing an extra fine quality of goods, which reputation it has satisfactorily sustained. Mr Taylor has been twice married. His first wife was a woman of fine attainments and a sister of John and Alex Swan of Tweedside. She died in 1881. Three years after he married Phoebe Amanda, eldest daughter of the late David Hart of Fredericton Junction, a lady esteemed by all who have the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Mr Taylor has had no children of his own but has had the care of his brother's children, two boys and two girls, since they became orphans and all who know the young folks will say that he has fulfilled his duty to them in the fullest sense.

He is still hale and hearty as his picture shows. He enjoys the friendship of many prominent men through the province by whom he is esteemed and respected for his many excellent traits of character.

Three times he has been privileged to visit his native land, thus having seven times crossed the Atlantic.

In his time he has contributed a good deal to the press, largely for the St. Croix Courier. His productions always show a keen foresight; a fine descriptive faculty, and an accurate estimate of men and matters. It has been said of him that he is a close observer; as glib with the pen as a true Scotchman and a worthy representative of "The land o'cakes."

From newspaper obituary (1904):

From "The Swan Family (early 1800's-1980)" by Jocenean Swan Hall and Margaret Swan Crozier, Chapter 6, page 176:

"John came to New Brunswick in 1850 from the River Tweed area, with his parents, brother Alexander, and possibly sisters Sarah and Elizabeth. It is believed that he was a "drains digger" in the old country, and when he came to Canada he brought the special shoes he used for his work. One shoe had a 12 pound steel sole which helped push the shovel into the earth, but the shoe was not very useful here as the soil was so different.

Jack settled in Tweedside on the farm where Carroll Patterson presently lives, and he built the house presently in use, in 1860. The 1861 Census Agriculture Report lists Jack as owning 100 acres of land valued at 200 pounds, and having two horses, two milch cows, three other neat cattle, twelve sheep and two swine.

Jack and Margaret Moffitt were married October 27, 1851 in Fredericton. Jack was ordained as an elder of the Presbyterian Church in Harvey on November 1, 1862. Jack and Margaret had eight children."

Walter was a farmer, and he and his wife Sarah lived on the homestead farm on Tweedside Road. They had twelve children. For details on this family refer to the book, "The Swan Family (early 1800's - 1980)" by Jocenean Swan Hall and Margaret Swan Crozier.

He was a native of Northumberland County, England, and came to Harvey with his parents among the first settlers in the year 1838. From newspaper obituary:

Harvey Sta., April 3 (1928) -- The last direct link between Harvey and England was severed on March 29, when Miss Margaret Thompson, the last survivor of the party of 25 families who left England in 1837 and settled soon afterward in what is now the parish of Manners Sutton, passed away at her home here, at the age of 91 years.

She was born in Northumberland County, England, near the Scottish border, in June 1836, and came to New Brunswick next year with her parents, John and Isabella (Swan) Thompson. Her father was for years the village schoolmaster of Harvey.

Excerpt from newspaper article - 9 Jun 1927--

Six-Day Celebration to Mark 90th Anniversary of Founding of Settlement and Dedication of New Church. One Original Settler Still Living.

It is an interesting fact that Miss Margaret Thompson, aged 91 years, who is living today at Harvey, was a toddling baby when the unsettled section was entered by the Scotch families and homes established. Naturally Miss Thompson will be a central figure in the proposed Old Home Week of June.

Miss Thompson, in a recent interview given a representative of the Telegraph-Journal, recalled interesting phases of early life in Harvey. She stated that during those early days wild animals were frequent visitors to the settlement and it was necessary for the men of the village to organize hunting parties to exterminate as many of the more troublesome kind as possible or to drive them as far afield as possible in order to protect their stock.

Supplies were sometimes very difficult to get, she said, and she remembered that one spring the little band of settlers were obliged to live chiefly on honey and milk because it was impossible to get through to Fredericton to procure food. A Mr Wilson and his boy used to go every week, when possible, to Fredericton to bring back food.

Oxen were used for several years before horses were brought to the settlement.

Speaking of the houses in which they lived in the early days, Miss Thompson stated that the structures were about 12 feet wide and about 16 feet long and were built of spruce logs with bark on them. Each dwelling consisted of only one room, and all the houses were built alike. The head boards of the beds and the posts were six feet high with a curtain suspended from rings so that when one wished to retire he could secure privacy by pulling the curtains around and closing in the occupant.

For about 15 years the people were without a regular pastor and were accustomed to meet each Sabbath in the different homes, when the elders read the scriptures and gave the sermons. This continued until the school was built. Due to the scattered settlement it was necessary for the children to walk six miles to reach school before that time.

Miss Thompson remarked that while her people had somewhat hard times in Harvey in those early days, it must be remembered that they had left hard times in Scotland, where the women and children all worked and received the equivalent of 10 cents per day for pulling turnips and doing other hard work about the farm.

Robert T. Swan Died Denman Island, BC

Born at Tweedside, NB, 94 Years Ago--West West at Early Age

Harvey Station, Sept 11 -- Relatives here have received word of the death of Robert T. Swan, a former resident of Tweedside, which occurred on Friday, August 23rd at his home at Denman Island, BC, at the age of 94 years. He had been bed ridden for the past year and a half and his death was not unexpected.

Mr Swan was born in Scotland at the border town of Berwick-on-Tweed on April 3rd, 1847, coming with his parents to New Brunswick at the age of three years.

In June 1874, he left New Brunswick for New Westminster, BC, where he obtained work as a miner, later going to Comox and engaging in lumbering, the mining project having failed. His wife, formerly Charlotte Worden, of Bayswater, NB, joined him there in January, 1878. At that time they moved to Denman Island, then a community of but six families. He quickly identified himself as a leader, helping to erect the first church, and acting as a school trustee for many years. For 22 years he was postmaster, the post office being at the wharf where the boats dumped off the bags. During the time he held this office not one complaint was registered against him.

He looked after the ballot boxes at elections for 30 years and had long been known as the Grand Old Man of Denman Island.

A serious operation brought an end to his active life, on the farm and in the community. He was a keen reader and kept in touch with world affairs through newspapers and books until his eye sight failed.

The death of his wife eight years ago was a great blow to him and he had never had quite the same keen interest in all that went on around him, since that time. He is survived by four sons, A. H. in Port Alberni, BC; James Swan, W. S. Swan of Denman Island; Robert of Glendale, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs W. Fulton of Denman Island and Mrs M. Wade of Ladner, BC; twenty-four grandchildren and nineteen great grandchildren.

The funeral took place on Monday, August 26th from the residence of his son, W. S. Swan with whom he had lived for some years. The pallbearers were James Swan, A. H. Swan, W. S. Swan, Henry Piercy and Wesley Piercy. The service was conducted by Rev. A. Leslie of Union Bay.

Mr Swan had a great many relatives and friends in Tweedside where he was well known, having made several visits to New Brunswick.

Edmund, Wilbert, Stephen and James R. Swan of Tweedside, Clarence and Roy Swan of McAdam, are nephews, and Mrs Albert Hay of West Saint John, Mrs Charles Coburn and Mrs Matthew Coburn of Brownville Jct., Me., are nieces.
